FOUR AMERICAN BOATS IN PORT

NEED MORE ROOM AT ALAKEA PIER

Four big fine steamers all flying the grand old American flag were berthed at piers in the ewa basin today, furnishing an inspiring and unusual sight, in these days when nearly every flag but the American flies on the Pacific.

The two biggest and finest were the Matson liner Maui, the new flag ship, Capt. Peter Johnson, which returned this morning about 6:30 from Hilo and is berthed at Pier 19; and the Hill liner Great Northern, Capt. A. Ahman, which arrived at 9:30 from San Francisco and Los Angeles and berthed at Pier 16.

Third of the quartet was the Matson steamer Kama, Capt. Arthur L. Soule, an arrival yesterday from San Francisco. She is at Pier 20. Colusa is from Philippines.

The fourth was the fine big Grace steamer Colusa, Capt. C. Curtis, an arrival this morning from Oahu, P. I., for fuel oil. She has 15 passengers and 700 tons of Philippine products, mainly sugar and hemp. The Colusa has been running in the last year from San Francisco to the west coast of South America. This is her skipper's first trip on the route.

NIAGARA MISSED BY AUSTRALIANS

Speeding up on the request of port authorities, who called to Vancouver ten days ago asking her to get in 12 hours ahead of time if she did not want to wait here for oil until after the Tenyo Maru had left, the Canadian-Australian liner Niagara arrived here ahead of schedule.

The Niagara was berthed at Pier 7 and took fuel oil. Because of her departure earlier than scheduled, two young Australian girls, who arrived this morning on the Great Northern, missed the steamer and will have to wait over until the next boat.

As Pier 7 is the only wharf which can take both big oil burners, the Niagara had to arrive ahead of schedule in order to get out before the Tenyo showed up. Her early arrival enabled both steamers to take on fuel without delay, but the two girls are naturally very much "peevish" at missing the boat through no fault of theirs.

BRITISH PUBLISHERS AS AMERICANS ARE HURT BY NEW ORDER

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Eng.—American publishers of books and magazines are not the only ones who stand to lose money by the new order of the government restricting the importation of publications. The British publishers have found that they also are hit pretty hard.

It was a growing custom for English publishers to have their books printed in the United States and the loose sheets transported and bound in England. In that manner they secured the American copyright, which is applicable only to books printed in the United States. This is all done away with by the new restrictions.

The American publishers of magazines and periodicals, for which England has become such a fertile field, will of course feel the worst effects of the order against importations. The only way the reader can now procure the American magazine is by ordering it direct from the publisher in the United States.

The Philmore Motor Truck Co. was incorporated at Dover, Del., with a capital stock of $10,000,000.

NEED MORE ROOM AT ALAKEA PIER

Harbor officials are earnestly hoping that the navy department will move the big German refugee merchant steamer Pommer and set her from their present berth at the ewa side of Pier 7 to some other less needed location.

This morning because of the two German merchantmen there was not a berth to spare in that part of the harbor, and Harbormaster William R. Foster was wondering what he would do if a few more showed up.

Nearly all the berths in the ewa basin were full up today with American steamers and the Tenyo Maru was at Pier 7, taking it only an hour after the Niagara had vacated the berth.

Later today the U. S. army transport Sherman arrived from San Francisco on a special trip to Honolulu with building materials for new army structures at Schofield Barracks. She was berthed at the lee side of Pier 17.

This afternoon the Pacific Mail liner Ecuador was to dock at Pier 6 from the Orient. With her tied up there only the weather side of Pier 16, the shallowest berth in the harbor, remained available as a docking place. Since the government seized the German merchantmen the harbor board has no authority to move them to other locations.

ROAD COMMISSION WINS APPROVAL

Changes in the road commission plan of the Seattle ways and means committee, whereby the governor shall appoint the members of the board instead of having them definitely named by law, were agreed upon today at a meeting of the committee with the auditor, treasurer and attorney general.

According to the plan tentatively decided upon by the committee and announced yesterday the commission was to consist of the superintendent of public works, the engineer of the county in which road work is to be done and the professor of engineering of the College of Hawaii.

Shingle stated at the meeting that the governor had given approval to the new plan of spending loan fund money in roads provided the appointment of engineers was kept in his own hands.

Attorney General Stainback advised the introduction of a separate bill to provide for the cantonment system by which counties shall keep roads in repair. It was a separate matter, he said, and should not be included in the appropriation bill.

As the road plan now stands this commission is to be known as an advisory road board, the "advisory" part of the title being suggested by Auditor Fisher, who believed that it would lessen any possible tendency of the commissioners to spend too large a portion of their time on the work at the expense of the territory.

Inasmuch as the salary proposed for the engineers at such time as they are actually at work is $5 each, Fisher's advice looked good to the legislators. Specifications will be drawn by the engineer of the board of supervisors first, then go to the commission for approval. The commission will pass on the specifications, methods and materials included in the plans and the county will then be allowed to construct the road.

Shingle argued today for emphasis on the upkeep of roads. The boards of supervisors have got to go about road repair in a businesslike way, he said. They should be instructed to inspect the roads twice a year or so, just as the mayor and auditor now are required to count the municipal cash in the treasury.

After the roads are completed in a district or districts, the commission will arrange the cantonment system in a definite plan and provide for the county's repairing of the roads.

Only one road, the Keamoku road on Hawaii, will be excepted from the road commission plan. This road is already partially completed by a loan fund commission and will be left with that body until finished. All of the other loan fund expenditures are to be included in the plan.

STREETKEEPER SHOT IN ATTEMPTING TO SPANK BOY BANDIT

CHICAGO, Ill.—Three baby bandits, all of them in knee trousers and ponies more than 10 years old, killed Jacob Stein, when they entered his store and demanded money at the point of revolver.

Stein thought they were joking and told them to "run along and play." As he started around the counter to spank them, one of the boys shot him. He died a few minutes later. All three of the youthful bandits escaped. Later in the day three other boys, all in knee trousers, but slightly older than the murder trio entered the saloon of Joseph Palkenkowski and finding his wife alone marched her into the toilet at the point of a revolver and then robbed the cash register.
